The Japan Association of Art Museums

The Japan Association of Art Museums (JAAM) was founded in December 1982 with 35 participating museums to promote various projects and activities through the cooperation among public museums in Japan. The activities of the JAAM include the collaborative planning of exhibitions and organization of traveling exhibitions, overseas study programs for museum staff, recognition of outstanding projects through awards such as the "JAAM Grand Prize" and "Catalogue and Article Awards," and funding curatorial research and regional projects by museums.

Because JAAM was established by a call of The Yomiuri Shimbun and Nippon Television Network Corporation, its secretariat is run by The Yomiuri Shimbun, Japan's nationwide daily newspaper company.

As of November 2017, JAAM has a membership of 145 museums.
